

Centre for Recent Drawing: Thomas Müller

11 November to 18 December 2009

Centre for Recent Drawing presents the first solo exhibition in London of work by international German artist Thomas Müller. Müller works exclusively on paper using a variety of approaches within drawing, returning to group of drawing strategies and marks that then create a network of lyrical association when installed, often to fill walls, using a large number of individual A4 size papers. The wall assemblies include gaps in the grid structure, where the bare walls add elasticity and tension which compliment the attitude to space in the paper works. This associative network and incident/non-incident in the hang of the grid can be viewed as another order of drawing beyond the individual paper works. These installations have been seen in various situations including the Drawing Center, NY, Kunstmuseum, Bonn and the Chinati Foundation, Marfa.

German Müller's work is included among others in the collections of the Centre Pompidou, Musée National d'Art Moderne, Paris, Deutsche Bank Collection, Kunstmuseum Bonn, Kunstmuseum Stuttgart, Musée d'Art et d'Histoire, Neuchâtel, Museum am Ostwall Dortmund, Museum Kunst Palast, Düsseldorf (Hanck Collection), Museum Schloss Moyland, Staatliche Museen zu Berlin, Kupferstichkabinett, Staatsgalerie Stuttgart, Städtische Galerie Karlsruhe, The Museum of Fine Arts, Budapest, the McNay Art Museum, Texas, The Maxine and Stuart Frankel Foundation for Art, Michigan.
